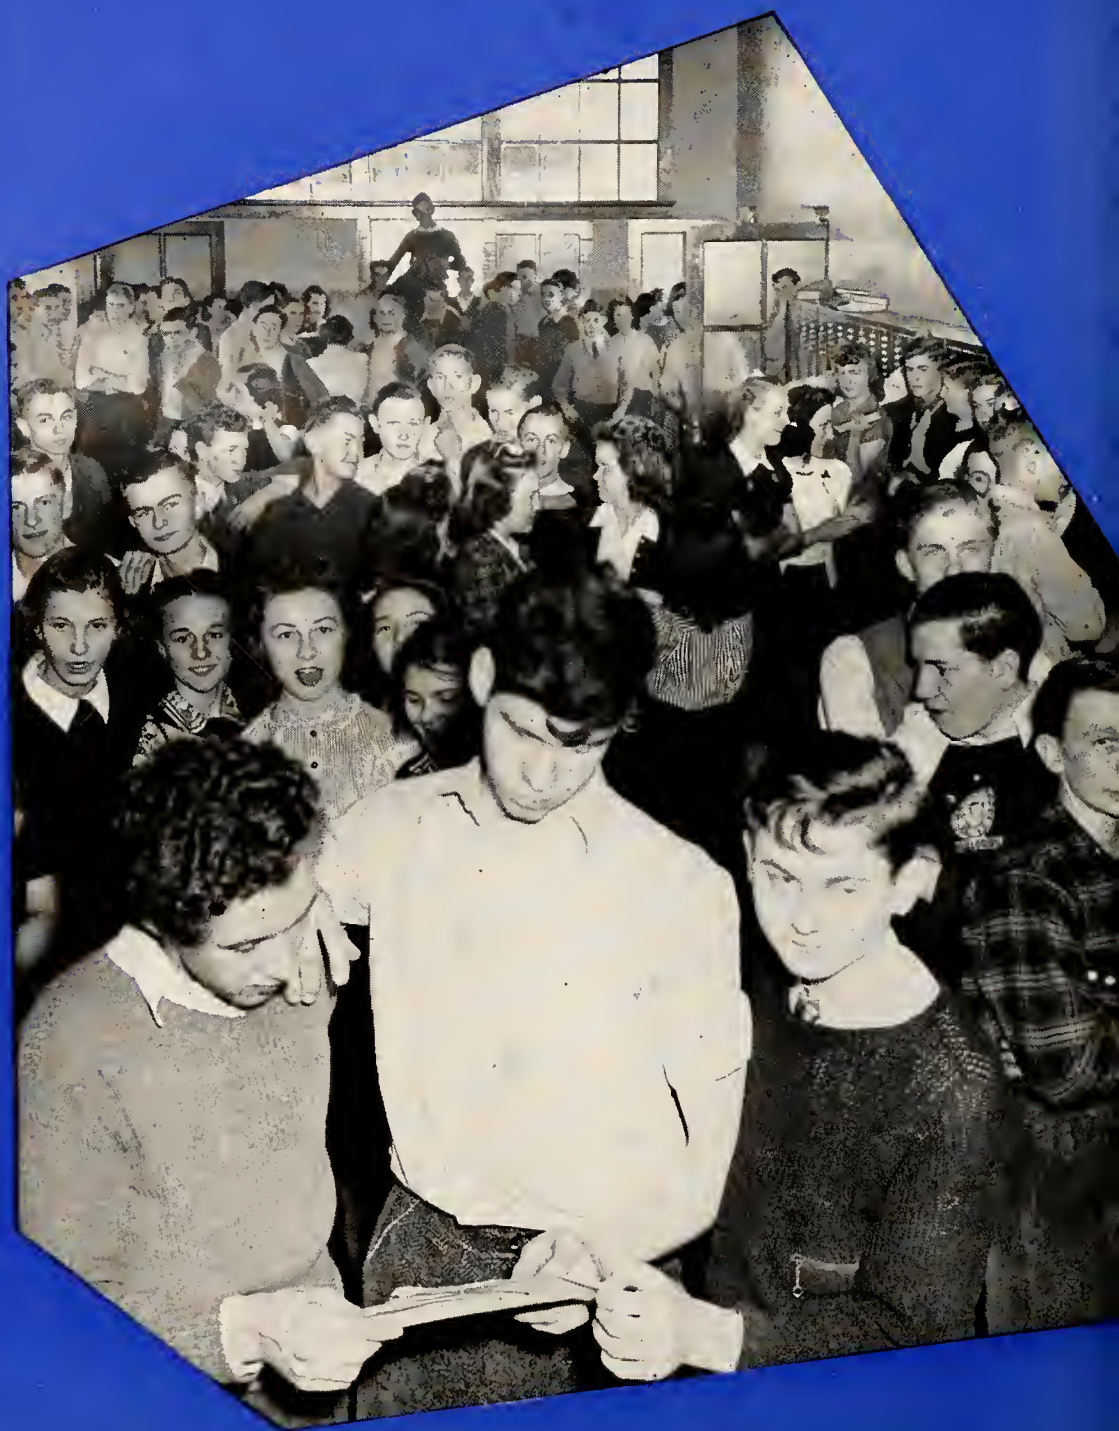
FOR YOUTH



In these pages we present the story of the school, faculty and students as outstanding symbols to foster democratic ideals in the America of Tomorrow.

THE MIRAGE

Published by:
NEW HAVEN HIGH SCHOOL
NEW HAVEN, INDIANA

Youth salutes its democratic ideals which are fostered at New Haven High School as it stands inspiring us for a bigger and better tomorrow. Notwithstanding, school spirit has always been an American tradition; and so long as we have a democratic way of life, it will continue to be a fine example of the democratic spirit. We are striving in the theme of our book to explain how the average intelligent high school student can be a part of such democratic ideals and ways of life.

FOR YOUTH

Youth salutes its opportunities and is eager to strive in cooperation with faculty and classmates. Our faculty makes the school, is often said, and so New Haven's spirit is carried on by loyal-hearted teachers whose words will inspirit students for years to come. "We work along together —that's the spirit of democracy."

The democratic ideals in the school are maintained by ready, willing, and waiting teachers who help students who come to them for support, advice and suggestions. We are proud that we have a faculty that is helping us attain knowledge—this knowledge can best be acquired through the understanding and help of teachers as you see them in their work.

With trembling voices and meek faces we climbed up an extra flight of stairs. Everyone knew who we were although we wore no card of identification. It was as plain as day—the freshies had come!

Regular classes started and we decided that to "hit the books was'nt such a task." Now the newness has worn off, and we are becoming extremely proud of the way the freshman have adapted themselves to high school activity.

The freshman class is represented in practically every organization including Band, Sunshine Society, G. A. A., Student Council, and the Mirage Staff.

In the begining of the sophomore year an election was held with results as follows: Delores Schlink, president; Charles Bandelier, vice-president; Verda Byers, secretary; Howard Zelt, treasurer.

Sophomore representatives in the Student Council from the various home rooms are Bonnie Swihart, William Gasper, Delores Schlink, Charles Bandlier, Marian Lampe.

A few sophomores have worked on the Mirage Staff and News-Static.

Junior Busy In Joinin

It looks as if the junior class prefers romeo's as their class officers. Harold Parkison is their president; David Moehring is vice-president; Helen Gerber is secretary; and Norman Harper is their treasurer.

The juniors have been fortunate in having Miss Frances Hathaway and Mr. Marion Feasel as their sponsors. They have helped with skating parties, weiner-bake, hayrides, and their class play, "One Wild Night."

The juniors enjoy music, singing, and dancing, and have several ambitious souls attempting to toot or warble. Some of these are Jean Martin, Dick Krueck, Ronald Ramsy, Ione Hawkins, Otto Melcher, and Eli Adams.

Who likes to cook? We do the tasting which might be suggested by Roland Waters, Louis Howard, Maurice Vonderau, and John Sturzenbeger.

The juniors have a candy booth during the noon hours. The profit is added to their class funds which will be used for outstanding functions, Jeanette Miller, Dorothy Weitzman, Mildred Rohrer, and Mildred Thompson are some of these who carry on this activity.

for several students. Franklin Bremer and Robert Reed are caught in the act—only no black eye yet.

Even the juniors enjoy art. Some can't even draw a straight line but yet Pauline Kohlenberg and Ruth Minick enjoy looking at some of our artistic attempts.

Too bad there isn't room for all of you to ride. It seems that Martha Stemmler, Florence Hoevel, Bernard Snamen, and Adrian Tustison are getting their exercise from bicycling.

"Coca-cola—who wants coca-cola?" is a well known cry to the juniors. Robert Shrock, Elmer Seelig, and Lawrence McNett can be seen selling coca-cola.

The juniors like to skate and several have excelled. Some of these are Ruth Price, Evelyn Myers, Marion Scheiman, and Wayne Bock.

The juniors have a monopoly on the basketball team. Six out of the first eight are juniors. Those on the team are Joe Wright, Butch (Elmer) Stellhorn, Arthur Hemsoth, Bill Boylard, Fritz Poeppel, Don Miller and Bernon Schlink.

Say—the girls like to cook too—at least here are two coeds attempting to concoct something to eat. They are Bernice Voors, and Betty Bradtmiller.

Shuffleboard is an outstanding activity at our school and several of the juniors enjoy playing it. Watch Richard Rothgeb, Alice Niemeyer, Wilma Lepper, Richard Snyder shuffle away.

"Click, click, click," go the typewriters as Richard Long, Henry Walter, Kathleen Butler, Dorothy Miller, and Alberta Fiedler work for speed in typing.

Too bad two of the juniors just can't seem to get enough sleep. Oh well, it's more fun sleeping in English anyway. (Shhhhh—Wayne Bock and Dean McCord are asleep.)

1942? Guess what? Yes, it's in your history book. Perhaps Wayne Edgar, Bonnie Driscoll, or Ray Ehinger might find it for you.

No fair peeping! Yes, it's Dan Purvis, our assistant editor of the Mirage and he really knows his photography.

Even though they are not in China—Chinese Checkers is fun. Mae Holmes, Eleanore Federspiel, Algunda Frosch, George Perkins, and Ross Ehle seem to be enjoying themselves.

A hayride was enjoyed in the fall by the juniors. I don't believe the wagons are all here.—No horses.

Our library seems to be a room of study and work. We do have good times there. Guess who's studying?

The juniors seem to excel in mechanical drawing. See Violet Meyer, and Ralph Ransome working busily.

Who says the juniors are scotch! Here we see Tom Wagstaff treating Virginia Miller to a drink of water between classes.

Shh! All alone! Want to hear this one? Ervin Bearman, Milton Goeglein, and Orlo Carpenter seem to be talking over something.

The girls can really shoot baskets too. This is demonstrated by Evelyn Lichtsinn, Lelah Rebber, Vera Linker (she's shooting) and Betty Larson and Helen Fultz.

We know what we see and hear. Our bulletin board is one of these sources of information. It seems Betty Wheeler, Arthur Schmidt, Kenneth Rose, Vondale Hendricks are really trying to see.

It really is fun to see the balls fly across the net. Betty Bell, Linda DeRemer, Wanda Putman, Rita Schlink are trying their skill at their ping pong game.

David Moehring and Maurice Vonderau, two juniorettes have developed a project for English. They studied—and this was the result.

FOR YOUTH

Youth salutes its privileges and enjoys wider and more varied interests in which extra-curricular activities and physical welfare are pursued. We believe that a student should be proud of the school in which he strives, and that he should so live that his school will be proud of him.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council has grown from a membership of eight in 1939-1940 to a membership of twenty in 1940-1941 because the classes were divided into home rooms. The Council is composed of the president and vice-president of the senior, junior, and sophomore classes, two representatives at large from the freshman class, a band member, and a representative from each of the eleven home rooms. The officers are president Homer Harper; vice-president, David Moehring; secretary, Betty Larson; treasurer, Carol Adams; faculty advisors, Miss Harriet Daniels and Mr. John Young.

The first semester the Student Council, with the cooperation of the entire school, sponsored a Magazine Sale to provide funds for free assembly programs. Clinton Moehring, Rita Schlink, Betty Larson, and Bill Gasper were asked to serve on the assembly program committee.

The committee arranged the following programs:

The National Education Week Observance at the Parent Teachers' Association Meeting, November 11.
"Liquid Marvels" by John Sloan, March 24.
The Easter devotional service April 10.
Senior Day, May 16.

The Council has made possible two all-school dances.

"The Snowball Hop" December 19.
The May Day Dance, May 1.

Members of the Student Council are: Freshman—Tom Baillie, Alvena Wagstaff, Violet Baker, Betty Kuhl, and Jim Schrader; Sophomores—Bill Gasper, Charles Bandelier, Bonnie Swihart, Delores Schlink, and Marion Lampe; Juniors—Harold Parkison, David Moehring, Betty Larson, Rita Schlink, and Richard Arter; Seniors—Clinton Moehring, Homer Harper, Carol Adams, Ruth Rahman, and Argyl Bacon.

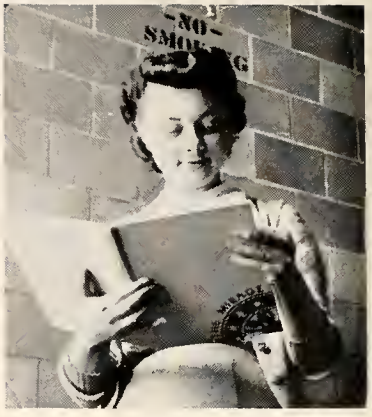
They Present "The Mirage"



MILDRED VONDERAU

"Youth in a Democracy" is the theme of the 1941 Mirage.

Under the leadership of Mildred Vonderau, editor, and Dan Purvis, assistant editor, we have compiled what we hope to be an interesting book. Dan is to be congratulated on his snapshots. Ruth Rahman has typed very industriously getting script compiled.

Herbert Bechtol, circulation manager, has put over a splendid campaign by selling 225 subscriptions. He was assisted by Ilene Burkett, Paul Fruechtenicht, Algunda Frosch, and Walter Reinking.

Eileen Potts, business manager, and Thomas Wagstaff, assistant, worked with Homer Harper, sponsorship manager, and they have made the sponsorship campaign a very successful part of the book. This year we used sponsorships instead of advertising to help the financial status of our book.

Our organization editor was Betty Ruth Amstutz, assisted by Lorene Dammeyer who worked on the copy and pictures of all organizations. Nila Jean Shierling was class editor, assisted by Norma Milliman, and Jean Larson as freshman editors; Alice Oberlin and Evelyn Rebber as sophomore editors; Ronald Ramsey and Helen Gerber as junior editors; and David Van Meter and Dorothy Henderson as senior editors.

Carol Phares and Karl Koester worked on the pictures and art work on the yearbook.

Bill Bolyard, Herbert Burgette and Delores Schlink compiled the material for the athletic sections of the book including girls' and boys' athletics.

Anna Lee Groves worked with Carolyn Kollman on the music sections.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY

The Sunshine Society began the season with its biggest event of the year, the District Sunshine Convention, which was held in New Haven, October 19. The theme of the convention was the Sunshine Treasure Chest, which contained all the deepest ideals embodied in the organization. The principal speaker was Mrs. Sandefur, the state dean. The 400 girls and their sponsors, who were the guests of the New Haven organization, all received something from the convention they could take back to their own chapters.

The Sunshine Society held four skating parties throughout the year. The girls showed their handiwork by baking and making candy to sell at the bake sale which was a means of making money. This money was used to send the new president to the Sunshine Camp during the summer. At Christmas the society gave its annual charitable Christmas party for the children of the town. At this party each child was presented with gifts of toys, candy, ice cream, and clothing. To spread Sunshine and good cheer at the Christmas season the society also sang Christmas carols at various homes. During the year the society packed baskets of food and sent them to needy people in the community.

Miss Grace Ainslie and Miss Rowena Walker were the sponsors of the society this year. The officers for the year 1940-1941 were as follows: Carol Adams, president; Wanda Putman, vice-president; Bonnie Adams, secretary; Betty Larson, treasurer; Delores Schlink, publicity chairman.

In 1936 the girls interested in athletics organized a W. S. A. under the leadership of Miss Kathlene Megenity. In 1939 the organization became affiliated with the Girl's Athletic Association, a national organization. Any girl in the New Haven High School interested in athletics may be a member.

The officers of the organization are: president, Pauline Hartman; vice-president, Vera Linker; treasurer, Marian Lampe; secretary, Donnabell Kitchen. Managers of activities are: basketball, Evelyn Meyers; volleyball, Elda Stemmler; softball, Anna Thompson; ping pong, Ione Hawkins.

Tuesdays and Thursdays the girls may participate in the following sports: basketball, volleyball, softball, shuffle board, ping pong, hiking, skating, indoor gymnastics, archery, and tennis.

The local organization gives "Winged Feet" to girls who have earned 150 points and an "N" to a girl who has earned 250 points. When a girl has earned 350 points, the state organization awards her either a wall-plaque or a locket. Miss Megenity, the girls' athletic director, presents the awards at the end of each school year.

The sophomores won the class basketball tournament, and they were presented a "tin cup" trophy.

The association members entertained their guests at a Co-ed Party in November.

The organization's only money-making project was a skating party at Bell's Rink in February.

Juniors Like to Play

On the night of April 24, the Junior clas presented its class play, "One Wild Night." The action of the play was centered around the life of Rodney Dodd who believed that he could not be healthy and lead a normal life because his ancestors had been neurotic invalids.

The house was quiet at all times until aunt Myra Opal Dodd came to visit and then—well, then the "wild night" began.

Rodney heard Dr. Bell talking over the phone about a rare species of plant which was fast fading away, and Rodney jumped to the conclusion that he must die.

Plans were made for his death and things reached a startling climax but "Willow Chlorophide" put them quietly to sleep and out of their troubles in the end.
The cast of the play was as follows:

Rodney Dodd, a wealthy man who thinks he is an invalid	Dick Krueck
Henrietta, his housekeeper	Betty Wood
Jodwillow, the inventive butler	Ralph Ransome
Aunt Myra Opal Dodd, Rodney's aunt	Kathleen Butler
Charlotte Allen, Aunt Myra's young companion	Betty Bell
Dr. Bell the family doctor	Ross Ehle
Nurse Trent, Dr. Bell's assistant	Helen Gerber
Ned Steenvell, a young, self-made hero	Bill Bolyard
Doris Winthrope, the pretty object of Ned's untiring attentions	Ruth Price
Hawkins, a moving man	Adrian Tustison
Dickens, a moving man	Art Hemsoth
Maribelle: Doris's roommate	Betty Larson
Mrs. Rooly, Pres. of the Dexiter School for Girls	Helen Fultz
Mrs. Batsom, a public-spirited townslady	Btety Ruth Amstutz
Jade Darnelli, a night club singer	Mae Holmes
James Scorpio, the town's leading gangster	Harold Parkison
Officer Bryder, a policeman	John Steurzenberger

The play, which was directed by Miss Peggy Leininger, was a success as a class project.

These Boys Are Bulldogs

Without youth Democracy would never succeed; and without opposition youth would never develop; therefore New Haven has, for the past number of years, had basketball as its major sport. The Bulldogs have the distinction of winning the Allen County tourney more times than any other school.

The New Haven Bulldogs enjoyed a successful season during 1940-1941. To show you how successful this season has been, we have arranged a sport's broadcast touching on the highlights of the season and the individual achievements of the players, who were responsible for the fine record achieved.

Thank you: Now we'll get under way. The Bulldogs started fast with a thrilling win over Leo's Lions; then added five more wins to the victory column before being checked by a strong Central Catholic team. This loss proved to be the beginning of a mid-season slump which cost them a chance to win the Blind Tourney and the County Tourney. Finally hitting their stride with a win over a good Berne team, the New Haven lads finished strong with six wins in their last seven games.

The most important of these wins and the one that probably gave the players and fans the most satisfaction was a 38-31 conquest of a Central Catholic team that had perviously checked New Haven's winning streak.

In the Sectional New Haven drew Lafayette Central as its first opponent, with Central as the opposition in the second round. The outlook was none too bright; however, through good team play New Haven was victorious. In the second game, despite the accurate shooting of Miller, the defense Bolyard showed in stopping Washington, and the excellent play of the team, Central proved just too tough. So ended the 1940-1941 season of the New Haven Bulldogs.

The scores of the games are as follows.

Meet Our Team

Clinton Moehring (22) better known as "Doc" has played three years for New Haven. Doc will not only be missed because he was a great ball player, but also for his guidance as captain and his fine attitude throughout the year. No finer tribute can be given than to say "Doc" played for the team.

"Dick" Lantz (99) playing his first year on the varsity turned in some fine performances. "Dick" was just "arriving" when graduation interfered with a promising career.

Melvin Hemsoth (66) the country "squire," has done his share for the past three years. "Squire" furnished us with some thrills this year, particularly in those overtime wins from Elmhurst and Decatur. The ability to hit when the chips were down would best characterize "Squire" Hemsoth.

"Kenny" Hanefeld (55) has played on the squad two years. No player worked or trained with more diligence. "Kenny's" strong point is his ability to steal the ball from the opposition and dash down to score.

"Don" Miller (92) the blond curly headed idol of the junior class is a new comer on the varsity squad. Mathemataically speaking "Don" is to a ball team what a sparkplug is to an engine. Miller certainly believes in giving what you have to give while you are in there.

Next a junior with a flair for pretty girls and a love for basketball, "Joe" Wright, (44.) "Joe uses his head as well as his hands in the game of basketball. Are the Bulldogs looking for some good leadership? Might not be a bad place to look.

Confidence is the making of a ball player. "Bill" Bolyard (77) found it and was hard to stop. "Bill's" speed enabed him to handle the ball well on offense and still get back to protect the basket on defense.

"Butch" Stellhorn (91) is the only boy on the team big enough to eat hay. We all remember that game in which "Butch" made six out of seven fouls. He has a knack at it or a lot of luck. The big boys are surely handy to have around on a ball team; they seem to be able to get the ball off the backboard.

Were we talking about New Haven's Bulldogs? "Fritz" Poeppel (11) has the tenacity and determination characteristic of them. "Fritz" could be counted on to hold the good shooters down and still do his share on offense.

"Art" Hemsoth (88) the boy that can "sneak" them in from underneath deserves his full share of credit for the team's success. "Art" seems to know where the ball is going to be when it comes off the backboard. New Haven can use boys with "Art's" height and ability.

A sophomore, Hubert Burgette (33,) made his letter this year. Though an underclassman "Hub" shows ability and with more drive can make a tough boy in there at center.

This concludes our little session with you about the boys and their assets to the ball team. We could tell a few things about them that they wouldn't want to hear, but since they have been good sports throughout the year, we will be good sports too and forget these few incidents, which would make some of the players blush.

These Boys Are Not Softies

The Bulldogs started the season very successfully by defeating their first opponent, Hoagland, by a score of 16 to 2. This was the beginning of a wave of victories which lasted until the last game of the tournament, when New Haven lost to Elmhurst. The final score of the tournament was Elmhurst 2 and New Haven 0.

This defeat took the championship away from New Haven for the first time in three years. This is the finest record held by any school in the county and the Student Body should be proud of the team.

In the championship game, the Elmhurst Trojans soon led the way to victory because the Bulldogs were unable to hit. After seven innings of play, the Trojans still nosed out the Bulldogs, won the pennant, and took the trophy back to Elmhurst.

The players who receive letters this year are: Kenneth Klenke, Kenneth Hanefeld, Melvin Hemsoth, Clinton Mehring, Charles Hively, Raymond Wiese, Richard Lantz, Francis Bandelier, Bill Bolyard, Arthur Hemsoth, Dale Ehle, Fritz Poepple, Herbert Burgett, and Roland Bechtol.

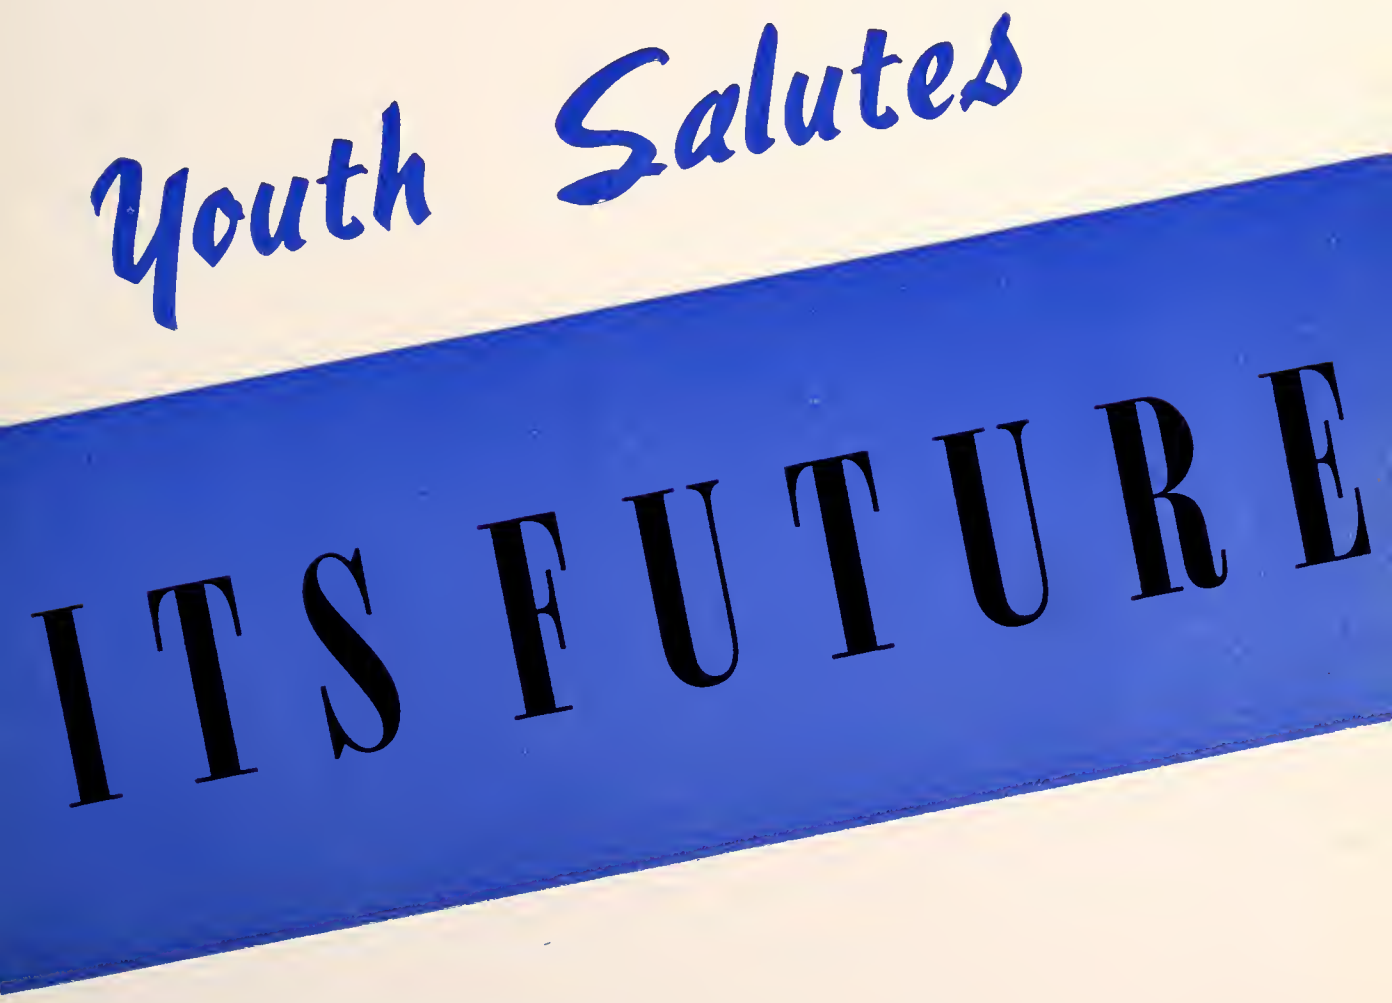
ADAMS TWP SCHOOLS

FOR YOUTH

Youth salutes its future and looks on with a spirit of courage, understanding and a determination to tackle the problems awaiting them. Only yesterday—for it seems only yesterday—we were entering for the first time the portals as forthcoming citizens and future upholders of democracy.



Youth the Future Citizen

Our school has fostered an education for the development of our moral, mental, and physical codes through which we may pursue happiness and retain life and liberty. The great majority of us seniors have ended our formal education, but we as Americans never stop liberal education. We must continue to learn so that we may teach our posterity to appreciate freedom of speech, religion, assembly, press, and petition that have been bestowed upon us by our forefathers in the Bill of Rights of our Constitution. We, the people who will be the citizens of the future, acknowledge our responsibility to the republic. Our forefathers, having recognized this duty in the past, built schools which train us to carry out our duties with more grace and efficiency. We have now completed four years of intensive study which has been part of our desire to build a more democratic government.

Today, as we live in a world of turmoil, confusion, and unrest, we feel that we must preserve our ideals of society—human brotherhood, and the golden rule. To bring the world back to peace and harmony in the future, we must go beyond partisanship and even the form of government itself to the real realities of human existence. We, as humans, must subject ourselves to the laws of nature if we, as a race, are to survive.

The Gold Rush of '49, the discovery of oil in the west, and the acquisition of Alaska with her vast stores of natural resources, have been great events, but they have not eliminated our frontiers. The coming of the era of commercialized industry has not destroyed youth's opportunities. It has shifted youth's frontiers to one of creative skills and scientific achievement. To those who have the ambition and initiative to go out and conquer, America holds all that humans could possibly hope to attain.

When, in the course of years, we go about our routine duties of life, we can look back upon those years of preparation as something valuable to Youth, the Future Citizen.

"How beautiful is youth! how bright it gleams
With its illusions, aspiration, dreams!
Book of Beginnings, Story without End,
Each maid a heroine, and each man a friend!
Aladdin's lamp, and Fortunatus' Purse
That holds the treasures of the universe."

—Longfellow

In the following pages we wish to introduce to you the future citizens from New Haven High School, and to tell you something of their achievements, their aspirations and dreams—of the past, present, and future.

History of the Senior Class

In September, 1937, ninety-eight freshmen entered the New Haven High School. The sponsors for the class were Miss Harriet Lake and Miss Helen Harrell. The officers elected for the year were: David Van Meter, President; Herbert Bechtol, Vice-President; Homer Harper, Secretary; Mildred Vonderau, Treasurer. Our first project was the sale of season basketball tickets and for selling the largest number we were awarded five dollars. Another five dollars was added to the treasury by selling the most tickets to the Indoor Circus, sponsored by the band.

In the fall of 1938 ninety-one Sophomores returned. The class elected Clinton Mehring, President; Herbert Bechtol, Vice-President; Mabel Stoner, Secretary; Melvin Hemsoth, Treasurer. Miss Harrell and Miss Lake were again the sponsors until Miss Harrell resigned to accept another position, her place being taken by Mrs. Reeves. Selling Christmas cards and pencils, sponsoring a skating party and movies completed the year's activities. On February 14 the girls entertained the boys with a pot-luck supper.

In September 1939 Miss Creal and Mr. Marshall were named as sponsors. Officers for the year were: Clinton Mehring, President; Homer Harper, Vice-President; Delores Zelt, Secretary; David Van Meter, Treasurer.

This was the class's outstanding year. With the help of the sponsors the Juniors sold candy every noon at every basketball game during the year. This along with the money made by giving the junior play netted a substantial profit for the proposed trip for the senior year.

The junior play, "His Ozark Cousin," was presented April 19 by the following: Raymond Wiese, Herbert Bechtol, Homer Harper, Charles Forsyth, Mary Glass, Mildred Vonderau, Argyl Bacon, Eileen Potts, Nila Shierling, Marjorie Hemsoth, Dorothy Hazelett, and David Van Meter.

The junior-senior banquet was held at the Trinity English Lutheran Church in Fort Wayne on May 3, 1940 and was followed by a theatre party. The Class of 1941 decorated the gymnasium and ushered at the baccalaureate and commencement exercises for the class of 1940.

Seventy-three eager, enthusiastic faces appeared in room 2 and 13 with Mr. Marshall and Miss Creal again acting as sponsors, in the fall of 1940. The class elected Clinton Mehring, President; Homer Harper, Vice-President; Ilene Burkett, Secretary; Robert Straub, Treasurer.

In September the class sponsored a skating party. On February 20 the class presented their annual play, "All American Family." The cast included Mary Glass, Nila Shierling, Dorothy Hazelett, Eileen Potts, Evelyn Andres', Paul Freuchtenicht, Charles Forsythe, Walter Reinking, Herbert Bechtol, Argyl Bacon, and Mildred Vonderau.

It was definitely decided that the class would go to Washington, D. C. One evening was set aside for a discussion of our trip when Mr. Miller, who will conduct the tour, explained the proposed tour to the class and their parents.

The Class of 41 deserves honorable mention for high scholastic achievements as well as ability to make money. It was the only class ever to win the award for the sale of season basketball tickets for four consecutive years.

The year's activities were completed by Class Day Exercises, May 16; Baccalaureate, May 18; Commencement, May 23; and the trip to Washington, May 24-31.

Ilene Burkett, Secretary, Class of '41.

Senior Prophecy

These clippings are from the files of Nila Jean Shierling, editor of the Allen County Buzz, and have been compiled by her star reporter, Dorothy Henderson. They are from various papers throughout the country during the year 1975.

New York Clippings

Willard Leonard, star window-washer on the Empire State Buiding, suffered unknown injuries, received when he fell from the twenty-fifth floor of that building. According to the only witness, Joe Becker, captain of the bellhops at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, it was the worst accident he had ever seen. There is no word as to Mr. Leonard's condition at this time.

A business merger, reported to be the biggest food transaction since man began to eat, was announced today. Herbert Bechtol, the well-known vegetable baron, has now taken over the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, and from this time on it will be known as the Bechtol-Kroger Grocery and Baking Company.

At his first appointment in his new firm, Mr. Bechtol has named Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hively co-managers of the New Haven branch. Mrs. Hively is the former Agnes Hoevel.

The latest appointment announced by President Paul Freuchtenicht from the White House is the Honorable Orville Lepper as ambassador to England. This appointment is no surprise in the light of Lepper's brilliant diplomatic career.

From the national capitol has come news of the following appointments: Robert Straub to the post of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mildred Vonderau, Supervisor of the Red Cross Nursing Service; Kenneth Federspiel, Postmaster General. These are just rewards for meritorious services.

Governor Jerry Moreland, the Hoosier State Governor, presented in person, before a capacity crowd of enthusiastic spectators at Madison Square Garden, the world's heavyweight championship title to Wayne Frey who has long struggled to win it. Frey's trainer Kenneth Heckman, was one of the proudest enthusiasts on the sidelines.

Opening on Broadway tonight is the world-famed Shakespearean actor, Walter Reinking as Hamlet in the play of the same name, supported by a star-studded cast. Kenneth Hanefield, director has in his cast, Evelyn Andres' as Ophelia; Sam Isenbarger as the uncle; Paul Mack as Horatio; Mary Helen Gabet as the queen. Professor F. Klenke directs the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Radio Highlights of the Day

Argyl Bacon has started the serial dramatization of his adventures in the wilds of Africa over the station P.D.Q. This serial is heard daily at 6:15 P.M., Pickle Junction Time.

Gloria Henning and Lavenia Stewart, the "Two Little Girls in Blue," are the latest attractions to the Melody Maniacs. Their names are quite the "stuff" in radio.

Morris Pfeiffer, the world-renowned evangelist, has acquired "Deacon" Charles Neukam to announce his latest radio revival. Choir-master Noble Rothgeb is in charge of the choral numbers. These inspiring services may be heard each Monday at 5:30 A.M. Rising early for this program will be worth the effort.

Society News of Babo Center, New Mexico

The social event of the season will be the marriage of Miss Carol Phares to Mr. Howard Doty. The marriage is the culmination of the romance of high school days. Miss Phares was formerly associated with Miss Dolores Zelt as interior decorator. Full details of the wedding will be announced later.

Madame Ruth Rahman, Secretary of Labor in the President's Cabinet, has arrived from Washington, D. C., to spend a short vacation with her husband, Homer Doty, who will accompany her to Washington, as she has found him suitable employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lantz, (Ilene Burkett of Waco, Texas, are spending a short holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Coak (Gloria Galligher,) a former classmate. Mr. Lantz is here buying cattle for his ranch and inspecting Mr. Coak's extensive parking lot interests.

Clippings from the Rosedale, (Arkansas,) Weekly

A very strange situation has arisen at the County Infirmary. Miss Luella Bleke, superintendent, and Miss Lorene Dammeyer, matron, have announced that they have no inmates at all. This county should be proud of its prosperity.

Carl Koester, president of the local bank, announces that a million dollar bond issue will be paced before the public to finance the construction of a goldfish pool in the park.

Homer Harper, long noted for his interest in noble causes, has turned his talents to the organization of a new club which it is feared, is the outgrowth of a strange mania long present in his family. The club has as its avowed purpose the extermination of all democrats.

Mrs. Richard McNett (Bertha Thimar,) president of the P. T. A., has announced as her theme "Progress With Us." Mrs. McNett, with the aid of her husband's legal training should make a brilliant president. Mrs. Howard Hoeval (Dorothy Trier,) the secretary, is mailing requests for donations of food and services for the school lunch in behalf of Miss Betty Horman, lunch supervisor. Any communications in this respect should be made at the Town Hall to Clerk Howard Hoevel before Monday.

A group of national celebrities were present at the reunion meeting of the Jack Benny Literary Circle at the home of Miss Olga Kohlenberg, local portrait painter. She was proud to present the following program: Madeline Lake, a vocal solo; Ethel McIntosh, a Spanish dance; Alice Kreiselmeyer, a criticism of current drama; Pauline Hartmen, trends in modern poetry; and Anna Thompson, a lute solo. Each of the guests is an authority in her chosen field and made a brilliant contribution to the program.

They Are Our Actors

Hustle! Bustle! Am I made up too much? Does this outfit look O. K.? Oh, what if I forget my part? What time is it?

Such was the conversation carried on behind stage on Thursday evening, February 20 at approximately any time between 6:30 and 8:00.

That night meant the close of three weeks of hard, strenuous work, and the prevalent question was—"will it go ever?"

The senior class presented on that night "All American Family," a comedy in three acts. The play portrayed the lives of the Butler Family, a typical American family, just such a family as you would find in your own block.

The cast of the play was as follows:

Roger Butler, father	Argyl Bacon
Carrie Butler, mother	Dorothy Hazelett
Caroline, their daughter	Eileen Potts
Bobby, youngest son	Walter Reinking
Bill, older son	Charles Forsythe
Grandma, Mrs. Butler's mother	Nila Jean Sheirling
Lucy Middleford, Mrs. Butler's sister	Mary Glass
Avis Middleford, her daughter	Evelyn Andres
Mrs. Smith, a fascinating widow	Mildred Vonderau
Peter Smith, her son	Paul Freuchtenicht

Much credit is to be given Miss Estelline Creal for her capable direction of one of her most successful plays.
